Plane with mechanical problem lands safely

An Air Canada passenger plane flying from Calgary to Toronto on Thursday was forced to turn back due to a problem with its hydraulics system.

Flight 1150 with 158 people on board landed safely at the Calgary International Airport. No one was injured.

Airport spokesman Stephan Poirier said police, fire and emergency medical personnel were called out shortly before 10 a.m. But it was all over less than half an hour later when the aircraft touched down without complications.

Calgary homeless agencies applauding province's move that makes it easier and cheaper for homeless people to obtain provincial identifica-

The province announced Thursday that it will work with homeless shelters and licensing registries to reduce the red tape and fees they believe stop the homeless from getting ID cards.

Tim Richter, president of the Calgary Homeless Foundation, is supportive of the new initiative.

"This is brilliant because identification is the key to everything else. They can open bank accounts, rent apartments and get new jobs," Richter said.

A homeless person who is registered at a shelter or visits regularly will be able to apply for a card through the shelter, officials said. Shelter workers will also help fill out forms and take them to a registry.

Mustard Seed director of programs Steve Griffin said the move makes sense.

'STRIKING 180' FOR CITY VOTERS

WITH ANALYSIS OF CIVIC ISSUES LEADING UP TO THE ELECTION

"Throw all the bums out!" Remember a year ago, when that was all we heard from friends, neighbours and media?

ell. Ric McIver is still polling in first place for mayor. True, Naheed Nenshi and Barb Higgins are not that far behind, but the results of a recent poll of who we might vote for alderman shows a much wider gap between the incumbents and their challengers

According to the O'Connell Enterprises poll, in every single ward where the incumbent is running again, they are leading. And not just a small lead — in most cases it's gigantic.

For a city that just nine months ago was swept up in palpable anti-council sentiment, this is a striking 180.

Take Ward 1 as an example. In 2007, Jennifer Banks came surprisingly close to defeating Dale Hodges, an incumbent who, even three years ago, was believed to be well past his prime. If Calgarians really believed it was time for a sweeping change, you might think council's longest serving member would be first on the hit list. Of residents who say they have chosen their candidate, Hodges currently has 80 per cent support. That's crazy high considering this was supposed to be the year of

It doesn't end there. Ald. Lowe has 72 er cent of decided voters, Ald. Stevenson has 67 per cent, Ald. Jones 88 per cent, Ald. Farrell 52 per cent, Ald. Mar, 74 per cent; Ald. Chabot, 88 per cent; Ald. Pincott, 55 per cent; and Ald. Colley-Urquhart, 81 per

Only Linda Fox-Mellway in Ward 14 has less support than all of her competitors put together, at 37 per cent. Even so, she's currently leading the race, according to the poll.

Have we really changed our minds this much in just one short year? In wards where there is no incumbent, every race is much closer, with not a single candidate even coming close to having majority sup-

The biggest story, though, could be the number of undecided voters. In every ward the number of voters who haven't made up their mind vastly outnumber those that have. "Undecided" describes 34-64 per cent of voters in each area.

So the big question is, who will the "undecided" vote for? Will they go with the incumbent they know, or will they tap into the rapidly disappearing 'fresh start sentiment' and pick a newcomer?

All it will take is one snowfall to remind us of how we felt last winter. One dumping of snow and we could have a whole new council.

If next week is sunny, I suspect we'll have the same council we've had for the past three years.

Understand. Speak.

Tunnel divides Ward 3, in more ways than one

Airport tunnel dominates discussion at Ward 3 forum • Three of four aldermanic candidates present

While the airport tunnel seemed to be at the forefront of the Ward 3 candidates' minds, some residents were focused on other issues.

During Thursday night's Civic Camp citizens' forum, all three candidates present, Helene Larocque, Jim Stevenson and Gary Tremblay, spent much of the debate discussing the tunnel.

Certainly the tunnel is symbolic issue," said Larocque, adding the issue highlights the difference between the campaigns.

Although the candidates focused largely on the tunnel, Ward 3 resident Dean-Stangness said she thinks there are other topics to look at.

"It is an issue, absolutely, but I don't want it to take control of what's going on with our election," she said.

President of the Northern Hills Community Association Wendy Cavanagh said the ward seems to be divided when it comes to the tunnel.

"I think that's a problem with our ward because we're divided by the Deerfoot," she said.

She heard a terrible rumbling noise, then anguished cries for help as her rowboat pulled away from the sinking ocean liner Titanic that dreadful night in 1912.

Now, Laura Francatelli's first-person account of the disaster, in the form of a signed affidavit given to a board of inquiry, is set to be auctioned.

It is a gripping firsthand account of how she and her two prominent employers — Sir Cosmo Duff-Gordon and his wife, Lady Lucy Duff-Gordon — managed to survive, fleeing in a boat with a capacity of 40 people even though they only had 12 on board.

Sir Cosmo and Lady Duff "were two of the most controversial survivors," an auctioneer who will sell the affidavit Oct. 16 said.

Some say Sir Cosmo paid crewmen to get him away from the sinking vessel without returning to help those drowning.

Speculation rampant over Nobel Peace Prize

Chinese dissident Liu Xiaobo tops speculation for the Nobel Peace Prize one betting site has already declared him the winner — though some experts expect a more low-key choice on Friday.

Two women are also hot candidates in this year's Nobel buzz: Afghan women's rights activist Sima Samar and Russian human rights activist Svetlana Gannushkina. The last woman to win the coveted award was Wangari Maathai of Kenya in 2004. Of the 97 peace laureates to date, only 12 have been women.

Liu, who was sentenced last Christmas Day to 11 years in prison for subversion, has received by far the most attention in the annual guessing-game for the $1.5 million award. Other Chinese dissidents who could be tapped include Chen Guangcheng and Gao Zhisheng.

Five warrants issued in Mumbai attacks

Interpol notified its members on Thursday that India has issued arrest warrants for five Pakistani citizens, including two army officers, for their alleged involvement in the 2008 terror attacks in Mumbai, an official said.

India asked Interpol to issue the so-called "red-corner notices" for the five Pakistanis, said R.K. Gaur, a spokesman for India's Central Bureau of Investigation.

The notices follow a probe by India's National Investigation Agency into the role of American David Coleman Headley, who pleaded guilty in the United States in March to participating in the planning of the attacks, which killed 166 people.

IT'S TIME FOR US TO FACE THE PAIN

Other people's money DAVID DESCÔTEAUX

Savings, not consumer credit. will save us.

alloween is just around the corner. Here's a scary thought to put you in the mood: The Canadian economy could collapse any day.

So far, our economy has survived the financial crisis thanks to our housing bubble. The construction boom fuelled spending on building materials, appliances, furniture, electronics and more. But the bubble is deflating. And more people are losing their jobs every day.

South of the border, house prices continue to collapse. Over-indebted Americans will need years to clean up their balance sheets. As of now, 41 million of them survive on food stamps, and thousands more join their ranks every day. Canadian exporters will share their pain.

Are we prepared for a severe recession? No. Most of us are walking a financial tightrope. Canadians are struggling under record levels of debt — 145 per cent of disposable income. Carrying $50,000 on four cards and three lines of credit is the new normal. We're living paycheque to paycheque. Six in 10 Canadians say they would be in trouble if their paycheques were late. Imagine if they lost their jobs. Who's to blame? We are, of course. But so is the Bank of Canada, which has kept interest rates artificially close to zero for about three years now. When interest rates are low, we borrow to buy a house or a second car. Save? What for, when a certificate of deposit earns just one per cent?

This was our government's brilliant plan to get us out of recession: Entice people to shop till they drop. Two years ago, I was called crazy for advocating tax cuts instead of "stimulus" packages. "People will pay down their debt instead of spending!" Saving is wrong, I was

How did that work out for us. other than making us more vulnerable than ever?

The road to a real recovery goes through savings, not consumer credit. The Central Bank must stop this little game and let interest rates rise. This will hurt the economy in the short run, but it's the path we have to follow. If we delay the natural adjustment of the economy any longer, we will end up paying a much heavier price.

We face a simple choice – as we did two years ago: Lots of pain now, or severe suffering later. Unfortunately, it's human nature to postpone hard choices. And in this, as in many things, politicians are all too human.

I think it's because I've always wanted to do it. I just knew. When I was a kid, in junior high we did this skit in drama class called The Arsenio Tall Show ... I was Arsenio Tall because I'm so tall, and that was my first fake talk show. I didn't realize it then, but that has

You sort of began your career at BT in Vancouver, what's it like being back at Breakfast Television?

My brother is the host of Breakfast Television in Vancouver, so that was one of the reasons that I wanted to come back to the Breakfast Television family, because literally my family is part of it and I thought we've always wanted to work together, this is an opportunity to perhaps

Would you say that you're a morning person?

I always consider myself not to be a morning person because I would always be up all night. I was an insomniac but what I always like is the idea of being awake before everybody else.

role in Conviction

Movie's moral stance holds an emotional connection with audience Swank and Rockwell's mutual admiration bolstered on-screen chemistry

Sam Rockwell first got together to begin filming the drama Conviction, they bonded over one simple attribute.

"We're acting nerds," said Rockwell during a re-cent interview. "We got to-gether and were just riffing and playing ball. It was a lot of fun

Fun may not be the most accurate description for what united the duo, however. Based on a true story, Conviction is about Betty Anne Waters (Swank), a determined mother that enters law school and sacrifices nearly two decades of her life in order to prove the innocence of her incarcerated brother (Rockwell).

"Essentially it's a real love story at its core and I lives and its through an extraordinary experience they have to find their way through this maze and together that's all they have."

Indeed, Conviction (in theatres next Friday) is a stirring love story between two siblings but the stars also contend the drama's moral stance also holds an emotional connection with the audience.

"You want to see justice prevail," said Swank

Four-legged stars steal the screen at the box office

O Secretariat is perhaps the most storied horse to be portrayed in the movies O But he's not the only one

What do Elizabeth Taylor and Diane Lane have in common? Besides earning the title World's Most Desirable Woman (Lane, officially, in 2004, and Taylor, pretty much all the way through the '60s and '70s), they've both shared the screen with a 1,600-pound leading man.

No, it wasn't Marlon Brando, it was a horse, of course! Both have starred in movies featuring fourlegged cast mates — Taylor most famously in National Velvet, Lane in this weekend's Secretariat, the story of racing's most famous thoroughbred.

Secretariat may be the most storied real-life horse to be portrayed in the movies, but he's not the only one.

Remember Phar Lap? The biopic of his life and career — he was the most famous Australian animal athlete of all time, so well known that his heart, preserved at the National Museum of Australia, is their most requested exhibit — was not a hit in North America despite a 100 per cent Rotten Tomatoes rating, but was popular in Australia and New Zealand where the horse is a national treasure.

Faring better at the box office was the inspirational equine movie Seabiscuit, a Depression-era story about a charger that won races and lifted spirits.

Dubbed Three Men and a Horse by one writer, the story of a jockey (Tobey Maguire), a businessman (Jeff Bridges) and a wise old cowboy (Chris Cooper) connected with audiences and sold a hefty 5.5 million copies on DVD. Memorable quote? "The horse is too small, the jockey too big, the trainer too old, and I'm too dumb to know the difference."

More fleet of foot than the racehorse sports movies is the Disney comedy The Horse in the Gray Flannel Suit. Based on the novel The Year of the Horse by Eric Hatch, it mixes Mad Men-style advertising executives, a cute kid and a horse named after a stomach pill with stars Kurt Russell, Dean Jones and Dick Van Dyke Show regular Morey Amsterdam.

Coming around the homestretch are two horse movies starring Hollywood stud Robert Redford. In The Electric Horseman, he's a washed-up rodeo star "just walkin" around to save funeral expenses.' He's a bit on the decrepit side, but Redford did all of his own riding stunts in the film. Redford is back in the saddle in The Horse Whisperer, playing a horse trainer with a special touch. Memorable quote? "Truth is, I help horses with people problems."

The Dame gets a gun

♠ Mirren avoids being typecast by taking on role in Red ♠ Makes move from Queen to retired spy

mercials for Red prove, there's something about seeing Dame Helen Mirren holding an assault rifle. It's unexpected, to say the least, and that's one of the main reasons the famed British actress signed up for the project, based on Warren Ellis' graphic novel about over-the-hill spies

Inspiration

- To play a genial retired spy in Red, Mirren was inspired to base her character on Martha Stewart.
 Stewart combines sweet-
- Stewart combines sweetness with efficiency and a laser-like ability to concentrate, she said.

going back to work. (The title stands for "retired, extremely dangerous.")

"The whole idea is to do something different from what you've just done," Mirren explains. "The Queen was an incredible experience for me in terms of the attention the film got, but that sort of attention kind of sticks. And I was getting a bit sick of people saying, 'Oh, you're so regal and you play all these queens.' And I thought, actually I don't play queens. I play lots of different things. For a long time before that, I was a police detective."

So to subvert such royal expectations, she grabbed a gun. Despite her proficiency with weapons on screen, Mirren insists she's not a fan of firearms. "I don't like to ever say a gun is fun," she says. "The guns I found the most horrifying are these small machine guns. They're not funny, they're terrible because you can cause such havoc. Dreadful, dreadful."

Given that Red focuses on agents that have been put out to pasture, the topic of retirement is obviously on Mirren's mind — not that she has any specific plans to pack it in. "As night follows day, inevitably it will happen, but I have no idea," she admits. "I think we all have a dream of what it would be like not to work and grow heirloom tomatoes. And I do have that dream. It would be lovely. I do love gardening and all of that. But I do love my work."

Of course, it's not the actual acting — or the awards and attention — that Mirren would miss if she called it a day. Instead, she explains, it's the interactions with everyone from directors to co-stars to journalists. "In my job and in all the jobs related to my job, you get to meet and work with and be involved with clever, imaginative people who constantly surprise you."

Zach flirts with insanity

 Comedian researched mental illness for role in It's Kind of a Funny Story ▶ Brings humour to dramatic role

Zach Galifianakis might be best known for his role in The Hangover, but he's been a fascinatingly original comedic voice in stand up for years. His act typically involves playing gentle music on a piano while delivering absurd non-sequiturs like, "My New Year's resolution was to stop saying 'you go girl' to myself," and occasionally berating the crowd like a crazy person. He has long played with the idea that he's insane, so it should come as no surprise that his latest role is a hilarious and surprisingly dramatic turn as a psyche ward patient in It's Kind of a Funny Story.

"I've always been fascinated by that," Galifianakis told Metro. "I think that a lot of people put on the front that everything is going ok, but I feel that the human mind can go completely crazy at any minute."

The delicate balance Galifianakis walks between eccentricity and comedic insanity has always been central to his work. This impressive new performance comes as a result of being able to explore mental illness more thoroughly than ever before.

"I actually did research and went to a couple of mental institutions," revealed Galifianakis. "I've never really prepared for anything in my life, but for this it was important to see the real thing."

Fortunately, fans of the comedian needn't be concerned that he's become a dramatic actor. Co-directors Ryan Fleck and Anna Boden (Half Nelson) let Galifianakis improvise and infuse the role with his unique sense of humour, a freedom he considers vital.

"Some writers don't want you to mess with their words and I totally understand that. But they gave more freedom which is important because a) I can't remember a lot of lines and b) quite frankly, not this script, but most of the scripts in the movie business are terrible. People are always saying, 'I've always wanted to write a movie.' Trust me, just write it because you'd be amazed by what gets through the pipeline."

"I didn't know how to navigate having two directors at first. I think Ryan is more hands on and Anna kind of whispers in his ear like, 'hey tell fatboy with the beard that he's missing his light.' They're really nice people, very sweet and shy. I like that."

Secretariat Genre: Drama Director: Randall Wallace Stars: Diane Lane, John Malkovich

Secretariat succeeds in one area where most true sports stories stumble: Despite the outcome of the famed horse's run at the triple crown in 1973, director Randall Wallace still manages to infuse his races with tension, suspense and uncertainty.

But as much personality as the horse has — and as thrilling as the race sequences are — the film really belongs to Diane Lane, as Secretariat's owner, Penny Chenery, who defies social and gender conventions to handle raising the horse after her father's death.

The writing errs on the side of obvious a little too often, with many of Lane's big moments scripted like, well, big moments — like ready-made awards season clips. But despite that, the film is still a champ.

Life As We Know It Genre: Romantic Comedy Director: Greg Berlanti Stars: Katherine Heigl, Josh Duhamel

Life As We Know It may not quite be the Movie You Think It Is.

Marketed as a straightup rom-com, the slight charmer actually plays best as a humanist drama between two opposing personalities making the most of a bad situation.

When their mutual best friends die accidentally, uptight Holly (Katherine Heigl) and easygoing Messer (Josh Duhamel) are made legal guardians of the deceased parents' infant.

A premise that hardly warrants the big-screen, the lead actors pull out all the stops and conjure a chemistry that raises the melodrama above the waterline

Even amongst the obvious gags about smelly diapers and ceaseless wailing, there lie a few hearty laughs and an impassioned attempt at sincerity.

Stars: Nev Schulman, Ariel Schulman, Henry Joost

Catfish is a movie of the moment. This disturbing and thought-provoking documentary chronicles Nev Schulman's digital relationship with a family of artists via Facebook.

After developing a romance with one family member, he tries to meet them and quickly discovers how easy it is to be deceived online.

The film was made by a group of constantly filming friends who never would have documented the story without the accessibility of digital cameras and the dominance of Internet culture.

It's a powerful cautionary tale and impressive example of DIY filmmaking with an emotional sucker punch. Catfish might not develop much of a shelf life, but right now it's vital viewing.

Electronic upstarts reshape punk music

Band coined the slang word 'geeve' and tattooed it to their bodies

"We just don't geeve," shrugs Abandon All Ships (AAS) vocalist Angelo Aita.

(AAS) vocalist Angelo Aita. Slang terminology has long been a way for youth to create autonomy. Lingo separates young from old; allows informal chat while excluding others and fosters fresh opinions of what is acceptable.

"Geeve" though? Thanks to Toronto's hardcore punkinfluenced electronic upstarts Abandon All Ships, a new word is about to enter common vernacular. Only those who understand it are on their side of the generation gap. "Geeve's got multiple meanings but the most important one is that we just don't (care)," laughs Aita. "We (used) this word a lot growing up. It's like, whatever happens, happens. We're still gonna do things our way."

That they are. The word has become so pivotal to Aita, bassist Martin Broda, guitarists Kyler Stephen Browne and Andrew Paiano, drummer Daniel Paiano and keyboardist Sebastian Cassisi-Nunez, it's the official title of their debut full-length.

At that, Geeving (Underground Operations/Universal Music Canada) is bold. Delving into unexplored territory, it finds punk and electronica — two vastly different musical genres — uniting as though they've always been together.

Channelling their inherently danceable Euro-pop grooves through a severe filter of punk's combative aggression, Geeving is as unique as it is provocative. "We're interested in

"We're interested in everything from modern hardcore and metal like Parkway Drive meshed together with a throwback'90s Euro style including Joée, DJ Company," Aita notes, explaining how the band created such an anomalous style.

"We grew up through the '90s and Euro was shoved in your face all the time so it helped shape what we do. Nobody's mixed these two elements together before but we genuinely love both of them."

Apparently they're not alone in their adoration of disparity. AAS has garnered impressive popularity during their stint on the second season of MuchMusic program DisBAND, acclaim sure to push Geeving to the top of many charts.

Not that AAS could "geeve" a rat's bum cheeks. Aita declares that regardless of acceptance, they're gonna geeve it their all.

"It's our approach to life because it's a part of our upbringing," he concludes.

A SILENT Rebellion

is the time of year when British music fans start looking ahead to the last great event of the year: The Christmas No. 1.

This has been something of a national obsession — successfully ported from what's nothing more than a sales and marketing tool for the music industry — since the NME first started publishing an official singles chart in 1952.

People are encouraged to push their favourite to the top of the charts in the buying frenzy before Christmas by buying singles.

Usually, the winner is some mass appeal pop song. Then along came Simon Cowell.

Beginning in 2005, there was an unbroken string of Christmas No. 1's from winners of his Idol-like show, The X Fac-

There's a new Facebook campaign dubbed Cage Against the Machine.

The goal is to push a John Cage's 1952 composition entitled 4'33 (read as Four minutes and thirty-three seconds) to the top.

This is even a weirder choice than Killing in the Name because Cage's composition is nothing more than four minutes and thirty-three seconds of dead silence.

Cage conceived the piece to get an audience to consider that all sound could, in its own way, be music. The work is performed by a single pianist who sits down in front of piano and does nothing for precisely 4:33..

You can even buy it on iTunes for 99 cents.

I think this is brilliant. Anything that makes Simon Cowell's head explode is fine by me.

SINGER TURNED ACTOR

JT loves his vinyls records

Justin Timberlake says he thinks vinyl records sound better than digitalized tunes.

The 29-year-old pop musician and actor told German newspaper Frankfurter Rundschau yesterday that he loves putting on records featuring oldies from the Beach Boys and early Beatles, claiming they "sound warmer" and "more vintage" than digital versions.

Still, the singer acknowledges that MP3 files are handy for selling his own songs online.

Timberlake currently stars as Napster founder

Sean Parker in The Social Network, a biopic about Facebook creator Mark Zuckerburg.

Cocaine charge taints Mars' sterling image Pop Star Bruno Mars due in court on charges of cocaine

▶ Pop star Bruno Mars due in court on charges of cocaine posession ▶ Industry experts don't believe arrest will hurt singer's rising career

Bruno Mars should be having the best week ever: He has the No. 1 song in America, his debut album, Doo-Wops & Hooligans, was released this week and his 25th birthday is on Friday.

But while singer-songwriter-producer has much to smile about, at the same time, his success is being tainted by a recent felony charge.

Mars was arrested last month for allegedly possessing 2.6 grams of cocaine after performing at a Las Vegas nightclub. He's due in court Nov. 18 and if convicted, he faces up to four years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

But some industry experts believe the drug charge won't do much harm to the singer's rising career.

"I don't think he

"I don't think he meant it to come off that way, but his recent arrest shows that he has a little bit of edge I suppose," said Craig Marks, the editor of Billboard.

Marks said the arrest might have the unintended effect of introducing Mars to a wider celebrity audience than he would have enjoyed before.

"It's not the best kind of publicity and hopefully it doesn't really indicate some kind of deeper problem," Marks said, "but the fact is that I don't think it will harm his following."

The drug charge for the talented musician comes as a surprise. Though a newcomer, the image Mars built was an easygoing, wholesome

A series survivor — and this year he gets a girl

• Jesse Williams talks about staying on in Grey's Anatomy

Grey's Anatomy has reached its seventh season. Season Six ended with a shoot-out at Seattle Grace Mercy West Hospital, but the one who survived was Dr. Jackson Avery. Jesse Williams is happy to stay on and continue to be a regular in the immensely popular hospital series.

"It was tough that some

"It was tough that some characters were killed at the end of Season Six, I had become friends with everybody. I'm glad my character survived though," he tells Metro.

The new season starts with a counselling session for the survivors.

Dr. Jackson Avery, the character Jesse Williams portrays in Grey's Anatomy, has now been made a regular on the cast.

"It was very exciting. I'm very happy and honoured. I spent a year discovering my character and didn't know if I'd stay in the show for a long time or just one episode."

Atlantic City roars into the 1920s Lavish casino-hotel will draw inspiration from hit HBO show

Resorts Atlantic City, the nation's first casino to open outside Nevada, will adopt a roaring '20s theme to capitalize on the success of Boardwalk Empire, the HBO series about Prohibition-era Atlantic City.

Dennis Gomes, who is buying the casino-hotel with developer Morris Bailey, says dealers, cocktail servers, bellhops and others will dress in 1920s-period costumes, music from that period will play, and even the drinks and casino shows will have a roaring 20s theme.

"A lot of people here are learning 1920s songs now," Gomes told The Associated Press in an interview vesterday morning.

Gomes said the new theme is his plan to remake and save the struggling casino, which is being sold because its former owners stopped making mortgage payments due to the poor economy and cutthroat competition from slots parlours in neighbouring states.

The roaring '20s theme is part of the nationwide fascination with Boardwalk Empire, but also a nod to Resorts' own history. Its main building was built in the 1920s and the decor is already faithful to that period.

The 1920s were "more than just a decade in a history book. It was a decade that defined and shaped our nation," Gomes said. "Beyond that, it was fun, adventurous and exciting, a period in time where people simply let loose to give way to a lifestyle where entertainment was king. entertainment spots in At-

"Resorts will be all of that," he said. "It will define and shape the direction Atlantic City needs to take to survive in an increasingly competitive market. It will be luxurious, it will be fun and it will be one of the leading lantic City.

Resorts is based in what as originally built as the Chalfont-Haddon Hall Hotel, which has been shown as part of the skyline in Boardwalk Empire.

A recent interior renovation was done in 1920s style, eliminating the need expensive construction. Gomes estimates the new costumes will cost about $1 million.

"It seemed like such a natural," he said. "The property was built in the 1920s and the decor already was from the '20s."

Yankees take stranglehold

• Pettitte, Berkman put Minnesota on the brink of elimination

Sure, the New York Yankees stumbled through September as Andy Pet-titte tried to work his way back from a groin injury.

After landing in the AL wild-card spot, the de-fending World Series champs look as though they had the Minnesota Twins right where they wanted 'em.

Pettitte turned in a vintage performance with seven smooth innings and Lance Berkman had two big hits in a 5-2 victory by the Yankees over their favourite post-season punching bag on Thursday evening for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five division

So much for Minnesota's home-field advantage. The Yankees are hardly an underdog when it comes

"Andy, when he gets in big situations, he knows how to handle it," New York manager Joe Girardi said. "He's not going to try to make the perfect pitch. He's going to stay aggressive and just try to do what he does. And I think a lot of that is just from experience. Berkman hit a go-ahead home run in the fifth and a tiebreaking double in the seventh against Carl Pavano, sending the Twins to their 11th straight postseason loss. Eight of those have come against the Yankees, who trailed in each of those games.

From the point of the Twins' biggest lead in those games, the Yankees have outscored them 42-8

Mariano Rivera got three outs for his second save of the series, extending his post-season record to 41. The road team has won all four games in the won all four games ... two AL playoff series.

The Twins? They haven't won a post-season game since 2004, matching the Philadelphia Phillies (1915-1976) for the second-longest streak in history behind the Boston Red Sox (1986-1995) and their 13 in a row.

Rangers win

Michael Young hit a threerun homer after a disputed check-swing, helping C.J. Wilson and the Texas Rangers beat the Tampa Bay Rays 6-0 on Thursday for a 2-0 lead in their AL division series.

Berkman, yet another big-name veteran finding a place on a Yankees postseason roster, even on the downside of his career, made it 2-1 with his drive into the left-centre bullpen in the fifth. Stamps looking momentum

MONTREAL

Time: 11 a.m. Monday Channel: TSN

That home playoff date keeps dangling in front of the Calgary Stampeders.

It's hung there for two weeks already. The Stampeders will reach for it again Monday, but they'll need the co-operation of the B.C. Lions to grasp it.

The league-leading Stampeders can't nail it down just with a win over the Alouettes on Monday, but a victory in Montreal combined with a B.C. loss to Winnipeg the same day would do it.

While that scenario could set up a semifinal at McMahon Stadium on Nov. 14, the 10-3 Stampeders have more ambitious plans. They want a record that will allow them to skip the semifinal altogether and host the West Division final a week later.

"Right now, our goal is not just to get a home playoff date for a semifinal, we want to have that bye in the first round just as anybody would want being in this position," Calgary quarterback Henry Burris

The Stamps are one game into a crucial fourgame set that could determine whether they reach that goal. After a convincing 46-21 win Friday at home over Montreal, the rematch against the East Division leader and defending Grey Cup champions is Monday. On Thursday, the Stampeders were on the sixth day of a nine-day stretch between games. They depart Saturday for Montreal. Given the intensity of their upcoming schedule, the players welcomed the extra couple days of rest.

After facing Montreal, Calgary travels to Saskatchewan on Oct. 17. The Roughriders (9-4) are currently just two points behind the Stamps. That game will determine which club takes the season

A B.C. loss would guarantee Calgary finishes no worse than second. The Lions are not likely to go quietly as they're fighting to hang onto the third and final playoff berth in the Show some love! Send a note to somebody special at kiss@metronews.ca

Handsome, you're so stubborn you make me crazy. But you're the only man for me and I still get a bzzzzz when you look at me. I love you and your silly bum so much, babes.

To the only man I want, You mean everything to me. You've never held back from showing how much you've loved me all these years. Friday is our "special day", and I can't wait to spend time with you- as always. I love you so much.

This goes out to our one and only Corinne. You keep our world together and without you we would be nowhere in life. You are the Elmer Glue to all of us Fairway Friends. Have a fantabulously stupendous birthday, our little Corr Corr! Let's extend lunch to 60mins!!!

Today's horoscope

T Aries March 21-April 20 You are not the sort to back down when someone opposes you but you will find yourself up against a tough opponent today and the planets suggest it might be wise to let them have their little victory.

¥ Taurus April 21-May 21 It's make or break time for a relationship and what happens over the next 24 hours will determine whether you stay together or go your separate

II Gemini May 22-June 21 Be careful who you trust today because there is a real possibility that someone is out to deceive you. Mercurywarns you would be wise to err on the side of caution happens today may seem dramatic, but is really of only minor importance. What does matter, of course, is how you choose to react to this and similar situations.

G Cancer June 22-July 22 It would, of course, be nice if you could get along with everyone you meet but Cancerians are sensitive people and some individuals simply rub you up the wrong way.

TV Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Mercury, your ruler, close to Saturn, planet of restriction, will limit your options, but that's no bad thing. If you are going to make the most of your talents you must focus on the one goal that truly matters.

► Yesterday's answer

← Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You may be entitled to tell people how to behave but that does not mean you have to do so. Be smart today and let those around you work out for themselves what it is they should be doina.

> M Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Your attitude towards someone will change dramatically today. You simply do not have the time or the patience. They get it right or they get going.

Nov. 23-Dec. 21 According to the planets you have allowed yourself to be fooled into believing that someone you work or do business with has your interests at heart when, in fact. they care only for themselves.

り Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 A difference of opinion is just that. It's isn't a fight, still less a war. and if it seems to be heading in that direction then obviously you need to get a grip on yourself. Lighten up, it's life.

--- Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You may find it easy to keep up with the latest fashions, but some people are not so lucky and a friend or family member will need your help today to get to grips with something they don't understand

H Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 You seem to be caught in the middle of a battle of wills and you're not enjoying the experience one little bit. Tell both sides that you don't intend to support either one of them. SALLY BROMPTON
